

Molly

by Taylor Hughson

You say
let's get lost
and so we go.

Up hills,
down escalators,
through no entry signs
and into each other's arms.

Then we fall laughing, on the pavement right in the middle of Cuba Street and no one seems to care.

Let's never be found again.

National Schools Poetry Awards 2008